

JANE QUINN

Co-Founder of Exchange Initiative

Jane Quinn, co-founder of Exchange Initiative and principal of Nix Conference & Meeting Management, is a leading advocate in the battle against human trafficking, particularly child sex trafficking.

The mission of Exchange Initiative is to empower and inspire action among individuals and organizations to combat sex trafficking. Exchange Initiative developed and launched the TraffickCam app in June 2016. The free mobile app allows travelers to anonymously photograph hotel rooms and upload data to a national database used by law enforcement and investigators to locate victims and their pimps.

In 2016, Nix Conference & Meeting Management was named for the second year in a row by ECPAT-USA as one of just 19 companies in the U.S. honored as a Top Member of The Code “for their exceptional work to integrate child protection practices into their business.”

Along with Nix co-founder Molly Hackett and staff at Nix, Jane teamed with ECPAT-USA in 2012 to develop and sign the very first Meeting Planners’ Code of Conduct. In 2013, Jane and Molly cofounded Exchange Initiative, an organization that grew from their company’s work in corporate social responsibility.

Exchange Initiative hosted the conference IGNITE: Sparking Action Against Sex Trafficking in 2014. IGNITE was the first nationwide conference to bring together all stakeholders to discuss system changes and cohesive community response for real impact in the fight to end sex trafficking.

Nix Conference & Meeting Management is a full service meeting planning company based in St. Louis, Missouri. Nix has managed hundreds of meetings, conferences and trade shows on four continents and in 17 countries.

Jane is a graduate of Fontbonne University, where she earned a Bachelor’s degree in business administration. She is an active member of the St. Louis Institute for Association Leadership (STIAL) and the Maplewood Chamber of Commerce. In the community, Jane has served as president of school parent associations, parent representative for athletic teams, and in leadership roles with Girl Scouts of America.